

Press release

Linkbynet and OctoPerf join forces for more applicative performance.

The outsourcer Linkbynet and the editor of performance testing solutions OctoPerf have just signed a partnership agreement.

The combination of these two jobs allows application performance to be placed in the middle of the digital strategy of their clients.

Saint Denis, 10th of May 2017.

LINKBYNET is a major actor in the outsourcing and cloud industry. The company develops many specific added value services to meet its customers' needs: operational security, application performance, managed services, Cloud Management Platform ... It is as part of its offer of application performance that Linkbynet has just signed a partnership agreement with OctoPerf. OctoPerf is a young French company, editor of the performance testing software with the same name. OctoPerf developed an innovative, comprehensive, easy to learn and inexpensive solution to diagnose the stability of web applications under stress. The objective of this partnership is to reinforce the Linkbynet's Application Performance portfolio, and to ensure a continuous improvement approach for the customers.

*« It is great to work on the realization of performance testing with a partner like Linkbynet, which is in the heart of customer's web strategy. It is a great opportunity to heighten awareness of the digital actors on new practices in performance testing, a key step to successfully deploy an application and optimize its success. » Quentin Hamard, co-founder of OctoPerf.

This technical and commercial partnership reinforce Linkbynet's position as Application Performance Driver. The stake for Linkbynet is to always choose the best products to combine the great expertise of our Application Performance specialists. It is important for Linkbynet to link with agile partners and always for the sake of improvement. The combination of Linkbynet's expertise and the quality of this product makes this partnership an added value solution on the market.

*« Having accomplished a benchmark (Marketing & technology) of performance testing solutions in the market, OctoPerf was chosen by the performance experts for its simplicity implementation and the agility of this start up. Indeed, it makes the evolution of its product more dynamic depending on the expectations, always more ambitious. So well that we LBN, can address and respond to a large scale of needs. The adventure has begun and is on the right track to make our customers always happier. » says Elsa Nauche, Products Performance Manager at Linkbynet.

About LINKBYNET

Founded on April 1st, 2000 in Saint-Denis (France) by two brothers, Patrick and Stéphane Aisenberg, LINKBYNET is a major player in Cloud outsourcing, e-business and information systems services. Since 2013, LINKBYNET has also positioned itself as Cloud Service Broker to better accompany/support companies in their migration to Cloud. The company develops many specific added value services to meet these new needs. The company has many customers, ETI and major international accounts, for whom the availability of their information system or their website is a critical issue. LINKBYNET has offices in France, Canada, in the United States, Asia and Mauritius. It employs over 650 staffs worldwide and achieved a 44-million-euro turnover in 2015. For more information: www.linkbynet.com

Linkbynet press contact: Delphine Faisant

Phone number: 06 18 70 84 90 – Mail address: d.faisant@linkbynet.com

About Octoperf

OctoPerf SAS is a young innovative French company, editor of the performance testing software in the OctoPerf cloud. OctoPerf seeks to democratize the performance test by offering to its users a simple and inexpensive training and using tool, that guarantees the realization of very realistic performance tests. OctoPerf addresses a worldwide market where the digital shift has made enterprises aware of the need to accomplish performance tests to guarantee the stability of applications. OctoPerf is a facilitator in this market dominated by overly complex and costly solutions.

OctoPerf press contact: Quentin Hamard

Phone number: 07 83 85 36 35 – Mail address: qh@octoperf.com